ANATHE The Wise Owl on “a”, “an”, and “the”

Who's Anathe? Well, he is a wise owl living in Paradise jungle. Many animals in the jungle believe that he is the wisest among them. He is also the one whom they can run to for wise advice if they do run into some knotty problems. The beautiful thing is that his advice always works wonder for them if they follow. The Anathe series is a unique storybook, encompassing the learning of grammar fundamentals as well as the right values for young preschooling children. As a parent or an educator, you could use the story in three ways:

- Inspire them to learn grammar fundamentals;
- Spark off their imagination and draw them into a world of fantasy;
- Instil in them values like politeness, respectfulness, and showing care and concern.

In this edition, at the large oak tree where Anathe lives, Trumpy the elephant, Napy the giraffe and Mirty the deer have gathered together as instructed. Something exciting awaits them as they have been told that the wise owl would be teaching them a new form of address with “a”, “an”, and “the”. Leaf through the pages to find out how the story unfolds!

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

DERRICK LIM is a former primary school teacher and now a full-time tutor. He is blissfully married with two children. During his teaching years in a primary school, he discovered his love and passion for the English language. Since then, he has been teaching English passionately and expecting nothing short of the standard be taught to primary school students. In the course of teaching English, he sees a decline in the standard of the language both spoken and written. Plagued by this concern, he has brewed out the iconic figure, Anathe the wise owl, from his creative coffeepot and woven it into a children's tale. When he is not tutoring or writing, Derrick is found beguiling his time at a café with a good book.
